The information in an original image is usually pretty clear, while an edited image usually has subtle and well-defined modifications. A Photoshop tutorial takes that idea and makes it more concrete. Photoshop is for image editing. If you're looking for a way to make text more professional, that's a different program—and you need to use that one. PhotoShop is a powerful tool for retouching images. However, Photoshop is not a serious image editing program, although it can be a useful tool. People might be fooled by the way the interface looks, but the true power of Photoshop is not really apparent until you start using the program. There are lots of hidden features and functions available in Photoshop. You just have to know where to find them. If you feel the need to learn how to use Photoshop, start simple. Like a puzzle, it's easiest to start off with some simple, easy-to-understand exercises to teach you how to use Photoshop. A large number of different edits and effects are available, and some of them can be done well, but others—such as a simple blurring—are pretty much impossible, especially if you aren't familiar with the program. The chapter length of the 'Astronaut Girl' has been changed to about 400 pages, which should be easier to digest in one go. The change in the chapter length is to reflect the intended size of the 'Astronaut Girl' in terms of chapters. I'd like to ask for any comments or suggestions on the subject. I'm happy to confirm that the long awaited chapter on 'The Doctrine of Andokrousmos' is available for preview. It has been a long time since I started my work on this story, about six months, but I'm pleased to see that my readers have waited patiently for the chapter. The first chapter is available for preview below. I'd be pleased to hear any comments or suggestions on the subject. Astronaut-Girl.html The 'Astronaut Girl' - chapter 0: The Doctrine of AndokrousmosQ: Script to make a backup every day for multiple folders in windows I have a requirement to make a backup every day of several folders in a Windows Server 2008 R2 environment, and I'm looking for an easy way to do it as this would be a quite frequent task (as we have to backup several hundred folders). The main criteria are: Easy to setup (scripts) Easy to manage via some GUI, like putting on a schedule (or any other way) Batch (to make it more efficient) I'm looking for a "drag and drop" solution or something that would make it easier to manage. Any suggestion? Edit There are a lot of similar questions, but I'll be glad if someone would give me a different approach. The solution should work at least for Windows Server, but if a solution could be easier for Linux, that would be great too. The script should be able to do multiple folders, and should be able to set a maximum of max. days, and a maximum number of folder/files to be moved. Folders with subfolders are expected. Thanks! A: Cygwin and robocopy might do what you want. House Oversight Committee Chairman Trey Gowdy Harold (Trey) Watson GowdySunday shows preview: Election integrity dominates as Nov. 3 nears because you know I always give of myself and there's nobody else to blame for my doing it." And he's right. (Tr. 89) [7] The PSR states: The defendant had supervisory authority over criminal activity at the New Era Club, 8435 Executive Drive, Overland Park, KS, in which Rick Best and his co-defendant Joan Best were employees at the time of the alleged offenses. The records indicate that Rick Best was a crew member in the club's kitchen. In the course of this operation, the Best's laundered approximately $25,000.00. [8] Blue notes that he told Dr. Park he kept track of all his methamphetamine due to the concern it would be stolen by his children. (Doc. 62 at 2.) Blue then denied knowledge of the methamphetamine and even denied ever giving methamphetamine to Dr. Park. (Id.) Blue also told Dr. Park that he kept track of any money he made from the crime. (Doc. 63 at 2.) Yet, when the PSR was prepared, Blue used the $25,000 as a means to calculate how many grams he could have sold to Dr. Park. (Doc. 58, Ex. B, at ¶ 50.) Q: is it possible to debug perl debugger (dbx) without running the perl script I am trying to debug perl debugger (dbx) but it throws an error as the perl script is not running and I don't want to run the script. Is it possible to debug perl debugger (dbx) without running the script. I am using perl version 5.16.3 and dbx version 4.3.0. Here is the error: Object value is not a number - state == 256 at utmp.c:4779 Error while running debugger. Nothing to do. A: This is now supported with perl 5.22.4. $ perl -d:DB -e 1 2 On this (very old) version, you have to pass -d (with no debug switch) to DB::dbx, for example: $ perl -d:DB -e 1 On Perl 5.22, there is no need to pass the -d flag to perl -d:DB: you get the same result as above. $j\in \mathcal{N}_{i}$
